A baroque chamber ensemble accompanies the modern dancers.

The madrigal singers present a imposition of eight persons playing recorder consorts accompanied by Mrs. Sally Clark at the harpsichord.

During the "Mary and Joseph Card," sung by sopranos Dianna Ingalls and June Theadore, dancers portraying Mary and Joseph (Joyce Nelson and Harold Lovejoy) will do a modern dance enacting the journey to Bethlehem. The scene is entitled "On the Road to Bethlehem."

Lovejoy has taken dance lessons at the Eugene Loring School of Dance and during high school he danced light opera. Miss Nelson also danced in high school and has taken dance at Valley.

The second scene will include the shepherds "In the Field," dancing to a Pastorale by Handel. During this seene the recorder consorts and the harpsichord will provide the music.

Other arrangements planned for the program will include a modern version of "Oh Come, Oh Come, Emanuel, sung by baritone Lee Plascoff, and Ken Martinet will harmonize "Sing in Excelsis Gloria" by Valley College. What used to be a hash line in the quad area will soon turn into a complete self-service operation, featuring vending machines which will enable students to acquire coffee, beverages, ice cream, sandwiches pastries and milk.

The hash line was closed down for repairs and alterations Tuesday. To be completed Jan. 2, the self-service procedure will be used for experimental purposes at Valley and one other junior college.

"We are hoping this operation will be used to its full extent," says Mrs. Virginia King, cafeteria manager. "There are many advantages in that it will cut labor costs, will provide better service (operating from 6:30 to about 10:30) and can serve from 900 to 1200 cups of fresh brewed coffee per day."

In addition to the food service, there will be a money change vendor. Mrs. King reports that there will be about 14 venders in operation with four coffee machines.

"There will be problems, of course," said Mrs. King, "But if students will bear with it the service should finally be a success."

'Must Fight'

In certain and eloquent terms, Miss Chescini's oration echoed the general texture of five finalists' speeches which preceded hers. The winner's solution for "turning the tide of the continent" was postulated:

"Make the man strong, and the world will take care of itself. We must fight to preserve our liberties."

The six speeches culminated a four-week speech contest in which mind." more than 350 Speech 1 students participated. Tuesday's winners were named by a three-man committee present in the audience-Claude A. Fox, director of Van Nuys Savings and Loan Co.; Dr. Leonard Stevenson, president of Van Nuys Rotary Club; and William Van Dusen, director of Sherman Oaks Savings and Loan Co.

Lincoln Quoted

The assembly also featured "Lincoln Portrait," which was narrated by UCLA baritone Waldo Winger, accompanied by pianist Miss Lorraine Eckardt, Athenaeum chairman. The "portrait" emphasized some of Abraham Lincoln's more famous phrases: "We (the people) hold the power and bear the responsibility"; "The dogmas of the past are inadequate to the stormy present"; and "As I wouldn't be a slave, I wouldn't be a master."

An hour after the assembly ended, students began distributing 30,000 replicas of the Bill of Rights from temporary booths set up on Van Nuys Boulevard in Van Nuys and Lanker-

Twelve days of festivities, bright fires, Yule logs, present exchanging and much merrymaking celebrated Christmas and the coming of the new year. The New Year Festival was to the Mesopotamians, their support to the god Marduk, who had created man and the world without form. This god was constantly at battle with the monsters of chaos, and toward the end of each year he was losing; so he renewed the year that he might not die.

In Greece still another legend arose. Whenever the Romans thought one of their gods resembled a Greek god, they concluded that the two were the same. Then they took over the forms of worship the Greeks observed. There was a Greek god of seed-time who

The first day of the "Saturnalia" began about the middle of December with the cry-Ho Saturnalia! and continued until Jan. 1. In its midst was Dec. 25, the day, as the Romans calculated, when the sun was at its lowest ebb.

The Roman Saturnalia was boisterous indeed. This was the season of revelry and feasting, the season of plenty. The early Christian emperors of Rome decided to hold the Christmas celebration to offset the "Saturnalia." The pagan revel gave way to Christmas as the merrymakers became Christians. (But we still say "Merry Christmas.")

The pagan god of the Germanic people differed from the Christian's God. Woden, Odin in Scandinavia, was the all-powerful, the creator who never dies. He later emerged in the great German epic of the 12th century, Nibelungenlied, as a king sleeping inside a mountain while ravens fly about outside. He has become San-from the rafters in the corner and was garnished with guilded nuts, strips of paper and fruit.

After hanging, the Christmas tree blossomed in history. Joseph of Arimathaea had brought the Holy Grail to England. There he planted his staff and died. The staff rooted and became a thorn-tree. Slips from the tree were transplanted and the thorn always came into full bloom on Christ-

Colleges and universities granting science bachelors degrees may request funds to assist them in purchasing scientific equipment to be used in the laboratory or in lecture-demonstration sessions. Examples of equipment eligible for purchase under the program include microscopes, centrifuges, microtomes, test equipment and similar scientific apparatus.

"I PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG of the United States of America ... "

By now these are familiar words on the Valley campus, since students began saying the Pledge of Allegiance daily in 8 a.m.

Students and instructors were heard voicing disgruntling remarks stemming mainly from the fact that they were being made to say it. No one doubted anyone's loyalty or pa-

ONE INSTRUCTOR LIKENED the daily salute to the marriage vows. After one says the marriage vows once, he isn't asked daily to repeat, "love, honor and cherish" to his spouse. So it should be with the salute—we shouldn't be made to reiterate our loyalty daily by saluting

On the other hand there were instructors and students saying it made them feel good and gave them an increased feeling of pride in their country by saying the Pledge.

Nor are gifts the only things wrapped beautifully and exchanged this season. Personalities also seem to be packaged to order to radiate good will to men. Each human personality package seems to wear a great big smile somewhere near the top, as though it were a greeting card addressed to the world which

It's as if rather than a temporary mild affliction of mind and emotions, it's an annual phenomenon which occurs while man is in a temporary self-critical mood and which serves the same purpose as a merchant's annual merchandise inventory. It serves to record profits and losses. And a personal inventory, like a merchant's, may show more loss than

Again, isn't it possible that a man who is honest with any disparity which exists between his real self and ideal self, deplores the absence of certain constant qualities within himself? And that this may partly explain why he gets the "Holiday Blues," usually about a week before Christmas and preceding New Year's

Many, however, have turned this inner turbulence into a fresh concept of life and their identification with it, by deciding that Christmas is a Time anywhere, when mass empathy for mankind everywhere, overcomes mass apathy and results in a better, happier life for people some-

But, despite recognition of reality, a man somehow finds courage necessary to go on, in a thought that he is an important part of a greater whole. For the ocean is what it is because minute drops of water combine and cooperatively make it so.

Thinking then further along these lines, a compassionate man can't forget that this and every Christmas season, thousands of little sad faces pressed against broken windowpanes, gaze longingly, as hopefully they wait for a Santa Claus, who—through no fault of their own-never comes.

As any man evolves into ANY child's Santa Claus, he learns the true spirit of Christmas as he watches the child's expression of appreciation for a hoped for, yet unexpected

In the East there is an Ivy-league trend in clothing, so therefore a sporty shoe is usually worn. The women at college level wear mostly loafers and socks. Socks Don't Go

A friend once related an experience to me when moving from the East to California. Upon entering college she dressed as usual, thinking nothing of her shoe attire. As days went by she began noticing students making remarks about her socks.

She then began noticing women of the college wore tennis shoes with nylons. Although she couldn't get used to the idea, her friends gave her nno choice by telling her that socks with shoes were fine in the East, but in California women usually were preferred without them. Although there are some conflicts, women usually agree on dressier styles. The young lady or business 11 a.m. — Independent Party, Tom woman will agree for day wear that white leather shoe with one to three

Avoids Extremes

(3) Realism—the realist combines the previous two and avoids the extremes of either.

"We have come a long way, but we have a long way to go in the fight for integration," said King.

King himself is dedicated, believing that "destructive means cannot bring constructive ends." Non-violence will achieve a double victory when won, because man will not have given up one advantage to gain another, in this case equal status for all. The double victory he was referring to is that the Negro will have won his fight for equality, but through his non-violence, he will win over the people who opposed him and even used physical force.

Cites Emancipation Proclamation This orator and great master of the English language proposed a second Emancipation Proclamation, a follow-up to the first one by Lincoln. The first one got rid of slavery, the second one would be "to get rid of another type of slavery"-segregation.

One reason for these racial problems, according to Dr. King, is that man hates each other only because they don't know each other. They don't know each other because they can't communicate with each other.

He also suggested that the federal government should assume some leadership in this field. He believes that although a law cannot change the attitude of the people, it can at least prevent the heartless from using violence. Therefore, legislation from the federal government is needed.

Big Team, Little Support

By DAVE WRIGHT, Sports Editor

Basketball is a game of home courts. A gym is much smaller than a football stadium, and for that reason the crowd reaction many times has a direct bearing on the teams competing. Usually the crowd in a football stadium is an abstract thing to the players because of the distance separating the players from the fans. The majority of the time the crowd reaction is felt during time outs or just before a play commences. Basketball is a different story. Every yell is generally felt or heard by all or part of the teams playing. This is one reason why basketball teams have a much better record at home, in fact the home team is usually given from four to six points when the "experts" are attempting to predict

Naturally, when a basketball team plays at home there should be more fans who will be rooting for them there would be if the team were playing on someone else's court.

Successful Season

Also the interest should naturally be higher if the basketball team is having a successful season, such as a team having a four or five game win streak, especially considering that this particular school's football team just completed a less than successful season, losing all nine games.

Another factor concerning student turnout might be the style of basketball this particular team plays. If it is the slow break type where each shot is carefully and slowly set up a certain segment of the student body might not attend because they consider this type of basketball dull to

However, if this particular team played fast break, or "Race Horse" basketball, logically it might be assumed that a higher number of students would attend the games because of the exciting style of play. Since basketball is a relatively easy game to watch, needing little technical knowledge to enjoy, and having very little "dead time," it might also be predicted that more students would attend, but something seems to have gone astray as logical arguments have not sufficed on the spirited Valley College campus.

Perfection, Key Note

The Monarch basketball team is having what is considered a pretty fair season, winning six straight games and having a seven win, one lost record. Of course, anybody connected with Valley realizes that perfection is the keynote of the Mon-

Good examples of this perfection can be found in the way the students keep the cafeteria cleaned up, or the attendance figures at the school theater arts productions, and the Independent Party's invited political speakers. A high note of perfection on the Valley campus was reached Tuesday when less than 100 students and faculty members attended the Bill of Rights Assembly.

Maybe the one Valley loss (not including the Alumni game) has people a little wary of seeing a team which does not have a perfect record.

The few brave individuals who took the chance of not seeing perfection when they courageously attended last Saturday's Valley-Reedley game, They did not see perfection, but they saw an exciting game, featuring a running, hustling Monarch basetball

Assuming the Monarchs continue to win, then there is a good chance maybe 300 or even 400 fans will attend a game or two before the sea-

There may have been some excuse for not attending football games because of the poor record and the dullness of some of the games, but there is no excuse for the poor attendance at the basketball games.

Getting the "students" of Valley College to come out of their caves, or from in front of their TV sets, or wherever they may be is almost im-

As one anonymous individual was heard to remark, "They couldn't get 500 students out for 'The Second Coming,' even if it was advertised around campus for a month."

Naturally some games will draw more than others due to the implications of the contest, or the team playing Valley. Pierce will naturally draw more than say Harbor, because of the rivalry between the schools-Monarchs and Brahmas. However, there should not be a huge drop off of from 400-500 fans for each game. Such as the Glendale and Reedley games, where there was 700 fans at the Glendale game and less than 200 at the Valley's cagers went on a last quarter scoring binge last Saturday night to demolish Reedley College 91-58 at the victor's gym. The Monarchs scored 37 points in the last 10 minutes to put the contest out of the reach of Reedley. Valley, leading 33-25 at halftime, was led by Ollie Carter, who

Carter added two free throws, Larry at halftime. Williams fired home a basket, and Valley was out in front to stay, 25-15. Open Fire Reedley opened the second half

From this point Valley went on to outscore the visitors 50-29 for an overall second half scoring barrage of 58 points, the Monarchs' best of the young season. During one four minute segment in the second half, Valley score 14 consecutive points.

For Valley the victory meant their 10th straight over Reedley and an all-time record of 11-2 against the northern college. Valley also gained its fifth consecutive win of the season

Eligibility Standings Adopted

The Metropolitan Conference Athletic Board in a meeting held last Tuesday adopted three new resolutions concerning eligibility of students attending Metropolitan Conference schools. The three new resolutions concern out-of-state athletes and athletes from other California school districts.

The basic idea of the state junior colleges is to provide an education for the graduate high school students in the immediate area served by a college in the area of a particular group of high schools. There are definite areas served by each one of the junior colleges in the state, but in the case of athletes who are outstanding, the area boundaries have sometimes been ignored. The new conference resolutions are an effort to strengthen the original boundaries and follow the basic idea of junior college

As an example, a high school graduate from the San Fernando Valley will be encouraged to attend the junior colleges in the Valley instead of traveling to and from a school out of the area. If a student has a strong desire and good reason to attend a JC out of his area, he can do so, providing it is cleared through the college in his area by the preferred school out of the area.

The reasons for the rule changes according to Valley president, William J. McNelis, are to even the competition in the conference.

The new resolutions follow: 1. Out-of-State Athletes

A student who is not a product of the local high schools or one of the high schools from which the college may draw athletes or has last attended an out-of-state college or high school may gain eligibility in a Metropolitan Conference college only if he is a minor (under 21 years of age) as of Sept. 1 for fall semester first enrollment or Feb. 1 for spring semester first enrollment and only if his parents or legal guardian have established permanent residence within the local junior college district or within a high school district from which the college may draw athletes -see residence requirements.

Lions Win Overtime Thriller From Vaqs

By JIM BREEN, Assistant Sports Editor

In the most exciting game of the young season, Valley's basketballers posted a 79-71 overtime victory Glendale Friday, after the two teams has tied 69-69 at the end of the regulation period of play.

Glendale started fast, jumping off to a quick 11-3 lead after the first four minutes of play. The Monarchs came back to knot the score several times before grabbing a 22-21 lead midway through the second quarter. Then Vag forward Gary Tapper led a quick rally with eight straight points to pull Glendale ahead, 31-26, their biggest lead of

With four minutes remaining in the final quarter, sub guard Terry Pressman scored on a lavun to even the count at 65-65. It marked the 2. Athletes From Other California 11th time during the game that the score had been tied.

Lions Rebound

A driving layup by Tapper and two free throws by guard Don Davies seemed to be the clincher for a Glendale victory, as the Vaqueros jumped ahead 69-65. However, the hustling Lions bounced back as Carter sank two straight field goals to pull even

Fith four seconds remaining, Doug Michelson fired a 20-foot jumper that went in and out as the final buzzer sounded signalling the end of the game. After a quick pep talk by coach Ralph Caldwell, the Lions returned for the five-minute period. Carter started things in a hurry as he scored on a layup assisted by Pressman with only seven seconds gone. On the following play, Vaq guard Mike Mitte connected on a jump shot and was fouled by Michelson in the process. He missed on the free throw and Williams grabbed his second straight rebound. Williams grabbed a total of five rebounds during the overtime.

In an effort to steal the ball Mitte fouled Stan Swinger twice within 30 seconds, but Swinger connected on only one of his three charity shots.

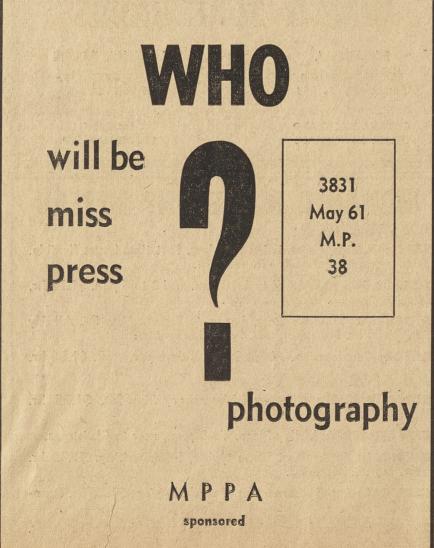

Glendale Outscored 10-2

Valley wrapped up the victory with key baskets by Carter and Williams, while the strong Monarch defense managed to hold Glendale to just 2 points while scoring 10 in the over-

Lion Makes All America

Ismael (Junior) Morales, tackleturned-end, last Thursday was named to the second team of the 1961 JC Index edition of the all-America football team. Morales, defensive stalwart of this year's winless gridders, was named to the position on the strength of his first five games played at that position.

In the Monarchs' sixth game of the season against El Camino, the 6 foot 2 inch, 210 pound grid star suffered a broken foot in the first play of the game, thus forcing him to the sidelines for the remainder of the season.

Morales, who lettered for coach Al Hunt's team as an end in 1958, had previously been given honorable mention on the Metro all-conference team. He received a higher honor on the all-America team because due to a Metropolitan Conference ruling an athlete must play in at least seven games to make the first squad. FIRST TEAM
